Audit-Ready Operations

Version 2026.08.0 · evidence cutoff 2026-08-03 · frozen pre-release

Dated educational operations architecture only; not legal, compliance, clinical, privacy, or records-management advice. Qualified Oregon counsel or compliance personnel must verify the package against current Oregon law, OPS forms, TLC behavior, and the operator's facts before release or use.

Three operating rules

1. Capture once, at the source, under a named owner.
2. Separate client-response data from service-center operational data.
3. Preserve the source, calculation, review, and submission evidence for every reported value.

Current reporting cadence

OPS's guide updated February 24, 2026 describes four 25-day TLC windows: April 1–25 for Q1, July 1–25 for Q2, October 1–25 for Q3, and January 1–25 for Q4, with submission due by 11:59 p.m. on the 25th. The internal target in this package is five calendar days earlier and is not an official deadline. TLC does not autosave; save manually and preserve final submission confirmation.

Opt-out boundary

Collect the current form from every administration-session client. If the client opts out, exclude their client-form responses from aggregated client data submitted to OPS. Do not erase them from service-center operational totals; report the total number of opt-outs. Never encourage or influence the choice.

Workflow

Assign field owners; verify the current form, rules, guide, and TLC; capture records; lock the quarter; run validation and fixtures; obtain two-person review; enter and manually save TLC; confirm both client and service-center submissions; preserve confirmation and verification ledger; trigger correction review for any mismatch.
